Editorial Comments.

The Mardi Gras celebration began in New Orleans Thursday.

Huerta has finished one year anyhow, as president of Mexico.

The final hearing in the Thaw case was set for yesterday, at Concord, N. H.

The Mt. Sterling Advocate office was damaged by fire to the extent of $1,000.

The body of Senator A. J. O. Bacon was buried at Macon, Ga., Thursday, in a driving rain.

A flood warning has been sent out from Louisville, as the Ohio river is rapidly rising.

The $1,000 ear of corn has been stolen from the Agricultural exhibit at Dallas, Texas.

Mrs. Robert Louis Stevenson, widow of the deceased novelist, died in California, Thursday.

Pulaski county has called a special election to vote on a $300,000 bond issue to build turnpikes.

Woman suffrage was killed in the Maryland House, 60 to 31. Now let the Kentucky House go and do likewise.

The Senate bill stopping boys or girls under 18 from smoking cigarettes, passed with only 4 votes against it.

Rev. J. A. Cottom, pastor of a Methodist church near Detroit, has been arrested charged with burning his parsonage.

A man named Mose Ayers is missing in Logan county. He must not be confused with Mott Ayers, who is hard to lose.

Maximo Castillo, captured by American soldiers in New Mexico, will be "interred" at Fort Bliss. That beats being "interred" across the river.

The number of suicides in Vienna decreased about 100 in 1913 over the previous year. The total was 1,558, or something more than four a day.

It is said the Greene insurance bill, which has passed the House, will be substituted for the Glenn bill in the Senate next Tuesday, as a compromise.

A prompt denial followed the publication of a report that Miss Margaret Wilson, the president's eldest daughter, was engaged to be married to Boyd Fisher, of Kansas City, Mo. It is now up to the man from Missouri to show that he can make good on a premature publication.

BUCK PLACE.

Purchased as A Parsonage For The First Baptist Church.

The handsome Main street residence of J. W. Buck was purchased for a parsonage by the First Baptist Church at a business meeting held Wednesday night. An option was presented by a committee composed of Chas. M. Meacham, E. M. Flack, Gus. Breathitt, D. W. Kitchen and Wm. Kimmons and after discussion the Trustees were ordered to purchase the property for $9,000. The present parsonage is to be taken in part payment at $4,500. Possession will be given to Dr. C. M. Thompson in April.

Death at State Hospital.

Thomas W. Allen, patient at the Western State Hospital from McCracken county, died Wednesday night, of general paralysis of the insane, aged seventy-eight years. He had been in the institution about six months. The body was shipped

GLENN BILL IS HUNG UP

Fate Said to Be Very Uncertain in Its Present Form.

OTHER LEGISLATIVE MATTERS

List of The Bills Introduced in The House By Christian's Representatives.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 20.—The Glenn insurance bill did not come up in the Senate today and the bill in its present form is dead.

These definite facts were learned along with many rumors, some of which appear to have some foundation. State Auditor Bosworth, when seen by a correspondent, said:

"The Glenn bill will not come up today. I can say nothing else."

Something relative to this bill has been going on outside of the floor of the legislative chamber, and it remains to be seen exactly what will happen.

Eighty-four of the 113 fire underwriting companies doing business in Kentucky have notified their agents in the State not to cancel and re-write any business for longer terms pending the settlement of the differences between the companies and the State Rating Board as exemplified in the Glenn Insurance bill.

Female suffrage received a backset Thursday when the Miller bill was virtually killed.

Senate Bill No. 77, providing for a Commission form of government for cities of the third class, was favorably reported in the House Thursday, along with a large number of other bills. Eleven new House bills were introduced, including one by Mr. Duffy. This brings the total House bills up to 549.

Mr. Duffy's various bills:

H. B. 27.—Act creating State text book commission.

H. B. 28.—Changing time of holding circuit court in 3d Judicial District.

H. B. 29.—Act to abolish fellow servant law.

H. B. 30.—Act to require State officials and employees to furnish itemized statement of traveling and incidental expenses to Auditor.

H. B. 31.—Defining method of paying appropriations to various State Institutions.

H. B. 32.—Providing for conveyance of prisoners to penitentiaries and minors to House of Reform.

H. B. No. 3.—Act to enable cities of 3rd class to adopt commission form of government.

H. B. 229.—Act to amend acts of 1912 assigning cities and towns to class to which they belong.

H. B. 271.—Act to amend act relating to revenue and taxation.

H. B. 347.—To provide for appointment of State Board of Regents for management of Eastern and Western Normal Schools and Industrial Institute for colored persons.

H. B. 461.—To amend and re-enact Section 576 Ky. Statutes, relating to corporations.

H. B. 525.—To license stationery engineers.

H. B. 543.—To amend constitution so as to exempt from taxation public property, places used for religious worship, etc.

An Old Timer.

Church Hill Grange, if not the oldest, is close to being the oldest grange in the state. It is 40 years old, having been organized December 2nd, 1873, with 30 members. The survivors, 15 in number, were young men but 40 years have put them in "the old men's class," but some of them do not like to be reminded of it. It is useless to say that all of them be-

SPROUSE STORES GUTTED BY FIRE

Big Dry Goods and Clothing Establishment on Ninth Street Near L. & N. Depot, Suffers by Early Morning Fire.

DAMAGES ESTIMATED AT $20,000

The most destructive fire for three years or more occurred yesterday morning, the alarm being turned in at 12:30. It was found that the double stores of the O. G. Sprouse Co. were rapidly burning. Glenn Thacker, connected with the block department of the L. & N., and a negro boy who works in a livery stable nearby named Albert Means, discovered the fire about the same time. They at once turned in an alarm by going to the station. As the department had to run but one square, they were almost instantly on the spot, facing a fight that tested their capacity to the fullest. But they went at it with a will and fought like heroes, finally subduing the flames and saving the building with a slight loss. The immense stock of dry goods in both rooms is practically a total loss to the Sprouse Co., as most of the stock not burned was ruined by smoke and water.

Mr. O. G. Sprouse, who had been in Springfield on business for several days, arrived on the 9:50 train yesterday morning. How the fire originated is not known. One theory is that it started at the cashier's desk in the arch connecting the two rooms and another that it started about a stove. This, however, is all guess work, as the fire had gained too much headway when Mr. Thacker and the negro boy discovered it to tell where it began.

It is impossible to approximate the loss sustained by the Sprouse Co. One of the salesmen said that the stock was very large, the company having already received part of the purchases for spring.

The store rooms are a part of the Cook Building and the damage to the building will run well up into the hundreds, if not reaching a thousand dollars.

The fire department did one of the finest pieces of work it has been called to do for years. The heat was so intense when they reached the building that the steel ceilings were red hot and the upper glass in front had cracked and fallen out, the desk and everything near it, including files and many other papers of value were destroyed, and this will, to some extent, prevent anything like arriving at the accurate estimate of the Sprouse company's loss. The most available data would be the company's last inventory, which may be found.

The adjusters of the insurance companies interested will be here as soon as possible and everything will remain in their mixed-up condition until they arrive.

The Sprouse Co. is one of the leading mercantile establishments of the city. Col. O. G. Sprouse, the head of the company, came here from Springfield about two years ago and last year moved his headquarters to this city though maintaining a branch store in Springfield. He has built up a tremendous business, which is still rapidly increasing. The loss will be very heavy and the interruption in business at a time when he has on a big reduction sale will be a serious blow, as the sale was in full progress. The loss as near as can be approximated on the stock is anywhere from $15,000 to $25,000. This is fully covered by insurance policies aggregating $37,000.

The loss on the building is fully covered by insurance.

CREAMERY QUESTION

Will Be Settled At a Meeting of Farmers Here Today.

100 MORE COWS WANTED.

Several Other Cities Offer Inducements To Peter Fox Sons Co.

A meeting will be held today at 1:30 p. m. in the offices of the Hopkinsville Business Men's Association by the farmers of Christian county regarding the establishment of a creamery in this city.

To date only 400 of the necessary 500 cows have been pledged and today must settle the proposition.

Elkton, Princeton, Madisonville, Ky., and Springfield, Tenn., are offering the Peter Fox Sons Co. large inducements to come to their respective cities to erect a plant, but a desperate effort will be made to have the plant located here.

The Peter Fox Sons Co. have made a very liberal offer to the farmers. They only ask that they be assured of receiving butter fat from 500 cows, in order to start the plant successfully. They do not ask any bonus of the farmers or business men.

The erection of this creamery will mean an expenditure of about $15,000. It is to be sanitary and up-to-date in every respect.

A large meeting is expected today and it is the duty of every farmer to attend, as this proposition means

GORE'S ENEMIES PUT TO ROUTE

Federal Government Likely to Indict The Whole Bunch For Conspiracy.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Feb. 20.—

The Federal Department of Justice is expected to take action in a short time in connection with the alleged conspiracy of Oklahoma politicians against Senator Gore, as charged by Gore in the $50,000 damage suit of Mrs. Minnie Bond, decided in favor of the Senator Wednesday. This was the statement of one of Gore's attorneys today, after the Senator had declined to discuss the jury's verdict.

Operatives from the Department of Justice were here throughout the trial and detectives employed by the Senator worked with them.

PNEUMONIA VICTIM

Mrs. E. M. Barnes Dies After Brief Illness.

Mrs. Virginia Barnes died near Dogwood Chapel Wednesday night of pneumonia. Mrs. Barnes was about sixty-five years old. She was the wife of Mr. E. M. Barnes, a well known farmer, and was a lady held in the highest esteem by a large circle of friends. She was a member of the Baptist church. Her funeral services were held Thursday afternoon and the interment took place

TOBACCO MARKET

Unfavorable Weather Cut Down Receipts But Prices Remained Firm.

HIGHEST FIGURE WAS $13.75.

North Christian Crops Established Record of The Week.

This may be considered the middle of the tobacco season and prices have ruled a shade in advance of those of last week. The deliveries, however, were lessened considerably by the very unfavorable weather conditions. But the loose floors have large stocks on hand and general activity prevailed. Probably there has been a slight increase in the bulk of most desirable grades. Farmers are slightly nervous as farming operations will have to receive their almost undivided attention after the ground hog weather has passed, and they always dread the uncertainties of the weather during March.

The Northern part of the county comes to the front, having made the record for the week. J. N. Sisk's leaf brought $13.75 per hundred on the loose floor of M. H. Tandy & Co. Butler & Jackson's star sale was made for another North Christian farmer, F. B. Wagner, near Bluff Spring, receiving $12 for his best leaf and $10.75 for his next best.

Below we give Inspector Abernathy's report for the week's transactions:

K. I. LEAGUE MEETING

President Bassett Wants Schedule Arranged for Coming Season.

8 CLUB LEAGUE PROBABLE.

Harrisburg and Vincennes Will Not Drop Out—Maybe.

February will soon be gone and after the snows and freezes and gales of March baseball fans will feel the first symptoms of baseball fever tingling through their veins. But the tingling should begin before that time. Mr. R. H. Holland, of the Moguls, wants us to call attention to the fact that it costs money to have league ball and those who are wanting it must get down into their pockets and get ready to fork up. The first payment, $250, must be made March 1st, just a week off.

The Paducah News-Democrat of Wednesday says:

While there have been reports circulated that Vincennes, Ind., and Harrisburg, Ill., will not be in the league this year they are from imaginary brains and have no facts to substantiate them. Neither the Harrisburg nor Vincennes associations has stated it would not remain in the league, therefore the presumption is that they will continue their membership. Should either association fail to deposit the first half of the $500 guarantee March 1, a meeting of the league probably would be called by President Bassett to take some action. If either city discontinues its membership likely the other will be dropped and the league would continue with a six-club circuit. This would cause a few more games to be played in each city, which probably would be satisfactory.

HOPEFUL OUTLOOK

For Great Success of Young Men's Christian Association.

ATTENDANCE IS INCREASING.

Donations of Many Articles Very Liberal—More Are Needed.

It is exceedingly gratifying to the older citizens to see the young men and older boys of Hopkinsville availing themselves of the advantages offered them by the opening of the rooms of the Y. M. C. A. building. There is really but one deep regret among the older people, and that is that the opening was delayed so many long years, before so many of the boys of the city had become habits of places not calculated to lift them in the scale of morality and young manhood.

Now that they have a place to spend their idle hours, with an environment that tends altogether to build them up in every way, the need of the rooms has already become more manifest and the watchword is everybody help the young men who are to be the future controllers of city affairs and make our citizenship what it may be.

The attendance continues to increase each day and other attractions besides a cozy room and light literature are being added. There is much yet needed more substantial than congratulations, and our citizens are replying to the call. It won't be many weeks before the young men will have the advantages of many volume of wholesome literature, a number of books having already been sent in. Chairs, tables, games and many other things are still needed.

James H. Skarry, the Ninth street jeweler, has given a splendid time piece, Mafor Yost a large table, T. L. Metcalfe gave and put in two box-ball alleys. There is plenty of writing material on hand for awhile, and Rev. C. H. H. Branch, who is temporarily in charge, has sent letters to the pastors to have their church papers put on the tables. One thing should be encouraged by everybody interested in the welfare of young men, and that is the holding of religious services, especially on Sunday afternoons. In the Y. M. C. A. rooms of the world hundreds of young men are reached and unite with the churches that could not have been won any other way.

STATE INVESTIGATOR

Was Here This Week Looking Into Condition Of Country Schools.

Prof. F. C. Butten was in the city Wednesday and spent the day looking into the condition of the rural schools of the county. Prof Butten's duties are to visit the different counties and ascertain how the county board of education are discharging their duties. It is expected that this county's board of education will be marked high up in the list of counties who have progressive men looking after the children's greatest interest.

Stopped the Train.

A mob stopped a train at Hernando, Miss., and took a negro out of the hands of the sheriff and lynched him for the murder of a white man.

 during the civil war. This is getting the pension business down to a fine
 point.

The Huffaker bill paying common school teachers with auditor's checks

 its author stated that several county superintendents went out of office owing teachers unpaid salaries, after the state money had been sent to them. Even graded school boards, under the bill, will have to forward their pay rolls to the auditor. An

REMARKABLE RECORD.

A compilation of what has been accomplished since Mr. Wilson assumed office on March 4, was made and issued by the Democratic National committee. Under the heading, "Performances," these thirty-one items of achievement are stated:

"For the first time in a generation
 the enactment of a tariff law in which no special interest or lobby
 had any hand.

"The enactment of a currency reform act which meets the enthusiastic approval of citizens of all classes.

"The elimination of the lobby from the halls of congress and the seat of government.

"The perfection and operation of the first two amendments to the constitution since 1870, namely, the imposition of an income tax, and providing for the election of senators by the people.

"The peace program of Secretary Bryan for the sole purpose of divesting political conflicts of their inflammable character.

"By his action in appearing at the capitol and addressing congress in person, ending government by secret conferences and private arrangements.

"The action of the president in bringing together representatives of capital and labor, resulting in the prompt passage of the employees' arbitration act.

"The president's constitution of peace policy, resulting in voluntary breaking of interlocking directorates.

"The action of the secretary of the treasury, in depositing $50,000-000 of crop moving funds in the West and South.

"The president's forcing on the attention of the country the necessity for a system of farm credits.

"The granting of modified self-government to the Filipinos.

"The divorcement of the government from affiliations with the New York financial interests that were parties to the six-power loan to China.

"The elimination of the Telephone trust's record of the Western Union Telegraph company.

"The policy of diplomatic postponement, which has prevented precipitated action in disputes with Great Britain, Japan and Mexico.

"The action of the postmaster general in making the postal service

self-sustaining.

"The development of the parcel post system.

"The change in the rules which brought an end to Cannon methods.

"Extension of the pure food act to meat inspection.

"The inauguration by the department of agriculture of a system of markets.

"The action of the secretary of the navy, in forcing the Armor Plate trust to submit bids in competition for armor plate and iron and steel.

"The action of the commissioner of Indian affairs in giving the protection of the law to Indian children.

"An extension of the special delivery system by the postmaster general to the parcel post.

"The action of the secretary of agriculture in extending the work of that department to the home life of the farmer.

"The formation of a new public land policy by the secretary of the interior.

"The enactment of the Lever bill for farm extension work, which it is believed will double the productiveness of American farms.

"As the result of prosecution under the anti-trust laws, this administration has brought about a dissolution of the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific merger, and caused the surrender by the Pennsylvania railroad of its large holdings in the Baltimore and Ohio.

"The action of the president in emphasizing the necessity of a primary system for the selection of nominees for the presidency.

"The action of the administration in sending representatives to the international congress in London, for the better protection and safety of passengers and property
 at sea.

"The early enactment of the Alaskan railway bill, already passed by the senate.

"The action of the secretary of the navy in putting into effect a system of academic, vocational and technical instruction for enlisted men.

"The prosecution of a number of combinations, resulting in adjusting difference and bringing their businesses within the law."

Poor Coat.

Bingo—"I wish you would try some alcohol on this coat and see if you can get the spots out." Mrs.
 Bingo—"There isn't any alcohol left;
 but you might breathe on it."

THE REASON.

"Why did little Mrs. Dare change her hair from brown to golden?"
 "I believe it was to gratify her husband's dyeing request."

DUBIOUS RECOMMENDATION.

"Are these Persian cats all that they are advertised?"

Canvassed Hams.

Kentucky and Virginia cured hams have a reputation for delicacy and sweetness that no other States enjoy. The same hams canvassed would be a great improvement, as any farmer knows. From the Breeder's Gazette, (Chicago,) we reproduce an article on canvassing hams by Dr.
 M. W. Williams of this city. The editor of the Gazette wrote a letter to Dr. Williams, thanking him for writing the article and no doubt our own farmers will profit by reading it:

"Secure a chain to the rafter of the smokehouse, allowing it to extend to within 4 feet of the floor.
 Take the hams out of salt and brush off all surplus salt. Sprinkle some pulverized borax over the fleshy part.
 With double binder twine thread the ham near the end of the hock, leaving a loop about three inches long.
 String these hams on a chain like fish on a string, skin part on chain.
 This is easily done by passing the loop of the twine through the link of chain and inserting a small wooden peg. Three or four hams may be used for the first layer. Then proceed up the chain, letting the skin part rest on the hocks of previous layer. Sew three strips of thin domestic or quilt lining, one yard wide,
 into a big bag 9 feet in circumfer-ence and fully one yard longer than the chain. Drop a wire hoop in one end of bag, about 24 inches down, and tack it; Place another hoop about half way down and tack it. Place
 the bag over the string of hams, gathering it in at top and tying about the chain. Place a third hoop 24 inches from the bottom and tack
 it. Gather the end of the bag and
 tie. Smoke will penetrate and cure
 the hams perfectly. The air will circulate freely; preventing any mold.
 They will remain indefinitely without further attention."

Another way just as good, is to put each ham in a paper sack, which can be bought at this office for 24 cents
 each.

Medicinal Weeds.

"Analysis of our edible weeds shows that they possess powerful medicinal qualities. The dandelion, for example, is replete with tonic salts and is aperient, besides being a natural liver medicine; the milkweed is a perfect tonic for the kidneys and a general cleanser of the system; the common yarrow is a good spring tonic for children; while red clover is one of the richest of all nitrogenous plants, and nitrogen is one of the most strengthening elements."—Farm and Fireside.

To Polish Windows.

There is no need to trouble about water and soap when cleaning a window. The easier way is to crush up a newspaper, dip it lightly in paraffin, and use as a polisher. The paraffin removes all dirt and stains very quickly, and the paper gives a splendid shine to the glass, which not only lasts a long time, but keeps flies from settling.

To Some Extent.

"As we grow older, we get sense; but not to excess."

Marvelous Memory.

One of the most astonishing mnemonic feats on record is recorded by John Wesley. "I knew a man about twenty years ago," writes Wesley, "who was so thoroughly acquainted with the Bible that if he was questioned as to any Hebrew word in the Old, or any Greek word in the New Testament, he would tell, after a little pause, not only how often the one or the other occurred in the Bible, but also what it meant in every place. His name was Thomas Walsh. Such a master of Bible knowledge I never saw before, and never expect to see again."

Matter of Protection.

A man who not only has no automobile, but who cannot be persuaded to so much as enter one, has been going around with a pair of motor goggles. Some one inquired why he wore them, seeing that he had no car. "No," he said grimly; "but my wife has hatpins!"

DYAKS ARE STRANGE

Tell the Truth and Build Monuments to Liars.

But Have No Idea of Clear Thinking; Logic Finds No Place in Their Brains; Bravery is Considered Highest of Virtues.

The Sea Dyak, that strange race found in the island of Borneo, has no idea of clear thinking; logic finds no place in his brain, and the most contradictory opinions seem to dwell together in perfect harmony in the turbid stream of his mind. The liver, strange to relate, is regarded by the Dyak as the seat of various praiseworthy qualities and emotions. Bravery is considered the highest of virtues, and when they wish to describe the greatest courage of a man they say he has a "brave liver." Intelligence also resides in the liver, and a man of knowledge is one possessing an "enlightened liver." Kindness is the quality of the man who has a "large liver," and perseverance that of one who has a "hard liver." A weak, undecided man is spoken of as one who had a "soft liver."

The Dyak is truthful and honest, and these qualities are rather unusual in eastern races. Families are often away from their homes for weeks at a time, living in little huts on their farm, and though no one is left in charge of their rooms in the long village house in the jungle, things are seldom lost.

After an experience of nearly twenty years in Borneo, a writer states that he knew of only two instances of theft. One was the theft of rice. The woman who lost the rice most solemnly and publicly cursed the thief, whoever it might be. The next night the rice was left at her door. The other was a theft of money. In this case, too, the thief was cursed. The greater part of the money was afterward returned to the box from which it had been abstracted. Both these incidents show the great dread which the Dyaks have of a curse. Even an undeserved curse is considered a terrible thing, and according to Dyak law, to curse a person for no reason at all is a sinable offense.

As regards their truthfulness, it is said of the Dyaks that so disgraceful do they consider the deceiving of others by an untruth, that such conduct is headed down to posterity by a curious custom. They heap up a pile of branches and trees in memory of the man who has uttered a great lie, so that future generations may know of his wickedness and take warning from it. The persons deceived start the tugong hula—"the liar's monument"—by heaping up a large number of branches in some conspicuous spot by the side of the path leading from one village to another. Every passerby contributes to it, and at the same time curses the man in memory of whom it is.

The Dyaks consider the adding to any tugong hula they may pass a sacred duty, the omission of which will meet with supernatural punishment, and so, however pressed for time a Dyak may be, he stops to throw on the pile, some branch or twig. Believing, as the Dyaks do, in the efficacy of curses, it is easy to understand how a Dyak would dread the accumulation of curses that would necessarily accompany the formation of a tugong hula.

From an eastern point of view, the morals of the Dyaks are good. Divorce is very uncommon after the birth of a child, but where there are no children, for such reasons as incompatibility of temper or idleness, divorce is obtainable by either husband or wife on payment of a small fine.

AGAINST LAVISH USE OF SOAP

Medical Authority Points Out Danger to the Skin When Cleansing Agent Is Too Freely Employed.

That many dangers cling to alkaline soaps is emphasized editorially by the London Lancet, in which attention is called to the large proportion of mineral ash and alkali in deodorant toilet soaps. When these soaps, after being dissolved in water, touch the skin, an excessive secretion of the acid sebum and sweat follows, and the protective outer layer of the skin, the epithelium, is partially dissolved. This means intense irritation, which is apt to lead to skin complications.

In the cheaper soaps the cottonseed oil and rancid fats used are responsible for considerable irritation. Castor oil soap is found least irritating, but it dissolves rather too freely and is apt to become rancid. Coconut oil soap is decidedly irritating and palm oil soap is less so, while tallow soap is least irritating of all.

Dr. Frederick Gardiner, accepted as an authority on this subject, holds that many had effects come from those soaps made chiefly of cheaper fats and cottonseed and coconut oils. Formerly tallow and olive oil were most used and the skin did not suffer.

The natural conclusion is that as little soap as possible should be used on the skin and that this should be least alkaline in quality. It should always be well rinsed off, so as to permit the least possible irritation.

One Reason.

"I don't remember," said the old critic, "of ever seeing so many had actors as I do now."
"But then," remarked his friend, "you must remember, too, that eggs were never so high."

The Courier-Journal of Wednesday printed a splendid picture of Mrs. Petrie, the wife of Dr. C. B. Petrie, who removed from Hopkinsville to Louisville, three or four years since. Mrs. Petrie has been nominated as one of the candidates for president of the Highland Civic League of Louisville, the election is to take place at the next meeting of the club.

Will Bring in Much Revenue.

T. S. Byars, automobile clerk in the Secretary of State's office, has prepared a statement showing that under the operations of the Glenn automobile bill now pending in the Legislature that the estimated revenue that will be received by the State for the year 1914 from automobile, motorcycle and chauffeur licenses will be $130,000, which reverts to the State road fund. During the past year the sum of $53,000 was paid to the State for automobile licenses, and Mr. Byars figures that had such a law as the Glenn bill provides, been in operation the amount would have nearly doubled. He estimates that in two years the State will derive $200,000 annually from this source which will make up half of the amount necessary for Kentucky to benefit by Federal aid to road building.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

TO START SWEET POTATOES

Propagated From Sets or Shoots Which Spring From Tubers and Form Tips of the Runners.

Sweet potatoes are propagated from sets or shoots which spring from the tubers when they are planted and form the tips of the runners. The sets are obtained by planting the potatoes in a hotbed. The roots should be hedged five or six weeks before the sets are wanted for planting out. The sets are broken from the potatoes for transplanting when they are three or four inches high and others form in their place, so that, in all, two to four crops are obtained.

For the late planting cuttings 12 to 14 inches long may be taken from the young vines after they have started growth. Sets or cuttings are put out in rows about three feet apart and the plants spaced 18 inches in the row. Most growers plant sweet potatoes on ridges 2 to 12 inches high. The ridges warm up sooner than the flat earth.

Attention to Cleanliness.

If poultrymen would worry less about ventilation and pay more attention to cleanliness, there would be fewer losses. Ventilation is needed, and if the houses are built on the scratching-shed order all will be supplied that is needed. But if the fifth is allowed to accumulate in a hen house all the ventilation that a scratching-shed will afford could not prevent the entrance of disease.

Great Appetizers.

Cabbage, turnips, beets, etc., are great appetizers for the cows at milking time and the quiet munching thus afforded the cow is an incentive to a more profuse lactation. Indeed, the greenness thereby supplied will prove a stimulus to the milk flow.

What Bothered Him.

"Did your father ever raise his hand to you, Billy?" asked Tommy. "Hundreds of times," said Billy. "But it wasn't that that bothered me. Where I got stung was when he brought it down."—

REAL AGES OF FAMOUS MEN

Popular Estimate Entirely Incorrect in the Cases of Numerous Characters of History.

In no one thing, perhaps, has one generation after another been more at fault than in the popular estimate of the ages of the great men of their day. Abraham Lincoln had been in the presidential chair only a few months when the men of the armies east and west affectionately termed him Old Abe, yet on his visit to Indianapolis, while on his way to be inaugurated at Washington, he announced at the old Bates house, February 14, 1861, that day as his fifty-second birthday.

Armand Jean du Plessis du Richelieu, the great French cardinal, we have seen portrayed on the stage by Lawrence Barrett and others as an aged and decrepit man. He was at his death only fifty-seven years old.

Shakespeare in his historical dramas has had much to do with giving succeeding generations erroneous estimates of ages of several English kings. Henry VI. is usually thought of as a man well up in years at the time of his death. He died in his forty-sixth year. His ancestor, John of Gaunt, "time-honored Lancaster," died at fifty-nine. James I., always represented as an old man, died at fifty-nine. In the poem of "Rosamond," King Henry, born in 1133 and dying in 1189, was only fifty-six. The French admiral, Coligny, murdered in the St. Bartholomew massacre, represented as a very old man, was only fifty-three. This also was the span of life of Henry VII. of England.

DUTCH DISCRIMINATION.

At Willemstad, the quaint capital of the island of Curacao, in the Dutch West Indies, there is a bridge of boats over the narrow harbor on which all who cross must pay toll. But the authorities have decided that it would be unjust to exact the same rate of toll from the well-to-do and the far more numerous members of the poor class. So they have evolved the following tariff:

Toll for people wearing shoes 1 cent
Toll for people going barefoot 1/2 cent

"And you can't get around it by taking off your shoes and carrying them in your hand," declares one who knows Curacao. "In order to be allowed to pay the half-rate there must be no sign of a shoe anywhere about your person."

CLOCK MADE OF APPLES.

Chiming out the hours at a recent apple show in California was a great mission clock, 30 feet high, the framework of which was made of apples. Upon a solid timber foundation varieties of apples were affixed, forming a covering. The face was made of dried apples, and even the pendulum was loaded with fruit. Other novel exhibits at the same fair and made from the same material were balloons and a lighthouse.—Popular Mechanics.

BIGGER PLACE.

"The moon's surface contains 14, 685,000 square miles, or nearly four times the area of Europe," said the professor.

"Is that so?" replied the sweet young thing. "And yet so many people prefer going to Europe!"

K. P. GOLDEN JUBILEE

Observed By An Evening of Music, Merriment and Oratory.

MANY LADIES WERE PRESENT

Fiftieth Anniversary of the Establishment of The Order, Feb. 19, 1864.

Before an audience that filled the big large room with interested hearers, many of them ladies, Evergreen Lodge No. 38, Knights of Pythias, held a golden jubilee celebration Thursday night.

The program for the celebration was interspersed with music and a feature of the celebration was a special ritualistic service conducted in a most impressive manner by Col. Jouett Henry, P. C., following the invocation by Rev. C. M. Thompson.

The officers, at their posts, responded to questions asked by the chancellor-commander as to the meaning of the various symbols of the fraternity. As the three cardinal principals of the fraternity, friendship, charity and benevolence, were explained colored lights were turned on a large Knights of Pythias shield, producing a very impressive effect.

Prayer was ordered by Gabe L. Campbell and a formal welcome was extended the guests by Col. Henry. Then followed the declaration of the principles of the order by L. E. Foster, and a solo, most charmingly rendered by Mrs. L. E. Foster, accompanied by Miss Follansby, piano, and Miss Wright, violin.

Rev. H. D. Smith spoke on "Brotherly Love," in his usual pleasing style. Mrs. Frank Torian's piano solo was a delightful number as was Petrus White's vocal solo.

Ira D. Smith, was the next speaker, taking the subject "Why Pythian Knighthood Appeals to Me." The eloquent young attorney was at his best and added to his reputation as a fluent and versatile orator.

The Pythian quartette, L. E. Tate, E. W. Clark, Newton and Jasper Roper gave a choice selection.

T. C. Underwood, taking as his subject "On The Outside Looking In," kept the crowd amused and entertained for fifteen minutes in one of his best speeches, delivered in a lighter vein and sparkling with humor.

A reading by Miss Nancy Boyd was highly entertaining and the gifted young lady was compelled to respond to an encore.

"Our Order, Its Growth and Mission," was the theme of an address by Chas. M. Mccham, the last of the evening.

After several catchy songs by the Roper brothers, the audience was dismissed with benediction by Rev. G. C. Abbott.

Orphan Girls Abused.

Alleged disclosures to the police by young girl inmates of a recently founded orphanage in Chattanooga resulted in the arrest yesterday of J. P. Sayers, head of the asylum, and Frank Smith, an attendant.

AGREEMENT NOT REACHED

Between Fiscal Court and Christian-Todd Telephone Company.

SPLIT ON 15c PER MONTH

Franchise to Be Sold March 3, ---Mandamus Will Be Filed.

Contrary to expectation the Christian-Todd Telephone Co. yesterday failed to agree with the Fiscal Court, on the franchise presented to the court and approved.

The magistrates at 2 o'clock convened and the franchise drawn up by the committee was adopted and ordered to be sold on the 3rd day of March.

The company was represented by Vice-President J. B. Hoxey and the company's local attorney, Hunter Wood, Sr. The company presented a franchise of its own framing, but the court turned it down, when the two representatives retired.

The chief point of difference is said to be 15 cents per month on single line phones, the court making $1.50 for the first 1 1/2 miles and 10 cents for additional miles, while the company wanted $1.65 for 5 miles and 25 cents for each additional 2 1/2 miles or fraction thereof.

5 Women Avoid Operations

For years we have been stating in the newspapers of the country that a great many women have escaped serious operations by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it is true.

We are permitted to publish in this announcement extracts from the letters of five women. All have been recently received unsolicited. Could any evidence be more convincing?

1. HODGSON, ME.—"I had pains in both sides and such a soreness I could scarcely straighten up at times. My back ached and I was so nervous I could not sleep, and I thought I never would be any better until I submitted to an operation, but I commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I soon felt like a new woman."—Mrs. HAYWARD SOWERS, Hodgdon, Me.

2. CHARLOTTE, N. C.—"I was in bad health for two years, with pains in both sides and was very nervous. I had a growth which the doctor said was a tumor, and I never would get well unless I had an operation. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I gladly say that I am now enjoying fine health."—Mrs. ROSA SIMS, 16 Winona St., Charlotte, N. C.

3. HANOVER, PA.—"The doctor advised a severe operation, but my husband got me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I experienced great relief in a short time. Now I feel like a new person and can do a hard day's work and not mind it."—Mrs. ADA WILT, 196 Stock St., Hanover, Pa.

4. DECATUR, ILL.—"I was sick in bed and three of the best physicians said I would have to be taken to the hospital for an operation as I had something growing in my left side. I refused to submit to the operation and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—and it worked a miracle in my case, and I tell other women what it has done for me."—Mrs. LAURA A. GRISWOLD, 2300 Blk. East William Street, Decatur, Ill.

5. CLEVELAND, OHIO.—"I was very irregular and for several years my side pained me so that I expected to have to undergo an operation. Doctors said they knew of nothing that would help me. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I became regular and free from pain. I am thankful for such a good medicine and will always give it the highest praise."—Mrs. C. H. GRIFFITH, 7305 Madison Av., Cleveland, O.

Game Preserve Elk.

Seattle, Feb. 19.—Twenty-six elk from the Olympic game preserve in Calahan county are to be turned over to the Government for shipment to Oregon to be released in the National Forests. There are now nearly 4,000 in the Olympic herd, which was on the verge of extinction when a law was passed several years ago forbidding the killing of any animals until 1920. The present increase is so rapid that the feeding of them during the winter is becoming a problem.

Extensions Forbidden.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 20.—Learning that local agents in Kentucky were affording insurers extended protection on outstanding policies by canceling them and rewriting risks under a renewal clause, twenty-two of the largest fire insurance companies operating in Kentucky notified special agents in the state to wire all local agents to discontinue the practice. Withdrawal of the companies from the state in the event of the passage of the rating bill now before the general assembly, it is pointed out, would be ineffective should the practice be continued.

EGYPT TO TURN TO TOBACCO

Strong Probability That the Weed Will Again Be Cultivated on the Banks of the Nile.

For some time past there has been a movement on foot for the introduction of the tobacco plant into Egypt. Most smokers of Egyptian cigarettes are aware that the fragrant leaf is not produced on the banks of the Nile, but that it is imported and merely blended and made up in Egypt.

Years ago tobacco was grown in Egypt, but its circulation was prohibited in 1890, as the result of an arrangement with Turkey, and this prohibition was confirmed by the Greco-Egyptian commercial treaty of 1906.

The Egyptian government has now denounced the commercial treaty, which will come to an end next May, and it is unquestionably this act which has stimulated the movement in favor of tobacco cultivation.

If the cultivation of the tobacco plant is permitted it may afford to some extent one of the by-products of which Egypt stands in such need today, though the total consumption of "Egyptian" tobacco, even if it were entirely provided for by Egypt, is nowhere near large enough to constitute the much-required setoff to the cotton crop.

FICTITIOUS MEALS ON STAGE

Real Articles Are Not Served, Though From a Distance They Appear So to the Audience.

One is not often tempted to be jealous of actors and actresses who have to eat on the stage. Their meals are apt to be of a hurried, perfunctory nature. Still, one sometimes sees appetizing dishes, or what appear—from a distance—to be appetizing dishes. If you were to "go behind" and watch them being prepared, or if you had to eat them, you would probably think otherwise.

Sawdust, for example, commonly serves as soup. The genuine article, besides being difficult to handle, has a knack of appearing, in the strong light of the stage, quite unlike itself. Delectable pieces of ham are often made of linoleum; bananas take the place of fish.

Chickens usually consist of loaves of bread, well browned, with painted wooden legs stuck in. The same bird on a larger scale serves as the Christmas turkey. A sponge cake soaked in gravy makes an admirable joint of beef, very tender and easy to carve, whilst pieces of toast, decked in paper frills, look for all the world like cutlets.

NORWEGIAN HISTORY.

One hundred years ago England, Sweden and Denmark concluded the treaty of Kiel, by the terms of which Norway was ceded to Sweden. Four months later, on May 17, the Norwegians declared their independence. The duke of Holstein was elected king, but he hastily abdicated the throne when Swedish troops entered the country to put down the revolt. Negotiations between the two countries followed and before the end of the year a constitution was agreed upon which declared Norway a free, independent and inalienable state, united to Sweden. The union of crowns continued for many years, though the Norwegians never ceased to yearn for absolute independence. Finally, in 1905, the two countries reached an amicable agreement to dissolve the union. Prince Charles of Denmark was elected king of Norway and ascended the throne as King Haakon VII.

TIME TO EVAPORATE.

"Why have you quit going with Tottie Coughdrop?"
"You know she got on the stage by shooting a man in the leg."
"Yea."
"Her audiences are getting slimmer."
"Well?"
"Pretty soon it will be time for her to shoot someone else."

OBSERVATION.

"Perhaps you may succeed in being loved for the enemies you have made."
"Perhaps," replied Senator Sorghum; "but I have noticed that style of affection is mighty fickle."

CLOSE CALL.

For Harry Sommers And A Boat Load of Fishermen.

Harry A. Sommers, editor of the Elizabethtown News, dared fate on "Friday the 13th" and barely escaped with his life. He is a visitor at Pass-a-Grille, Fla., and on that morning 17 passengers and 2 boatmen left in the Safe and Sane, a motor boat, for the fishing ground ten miles out in the gulf. The boat sprang a leak and the leak could not be located and half the passengers were seasick. Life preservers were put on and a bucket brigade went to work to bail out the water and the boat was headed shorewards for a race against time. Then the engine stopped and the boat began drifting further out. Everybody who could work got busy and after an hour the water was lowered until the hole could be found and plugged and the engine was finally got to work so that the shore was reached after about four hours of hard work.

TUBERCULOSIS SANATORIUM KAW MAY BE AMENDED

Changes Relate to Time of Making Tax Levy and Manner of Locating Institution.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 20.—The State Tuberculosis Commission met today and considered amendments to the act of 1912 creating the commission. One of the proposed amendments would specify a fixed time after a county has voted to establish a tuberculosis sanatorium when the Fiscal Court must meet and appoint a Board of Trustees. The election is held in November and the county tax levy is made, in the spring. If the Fiscal Court delays action until after the levy is made the establishment of the sanatorium is delayed a year, which is frequently the case.

The other amendment would change the manner of selecting the site to meet local sentiment on the subject. The law authorizes the State commission to select the site. The commission has encountered some objection to this and it is possible that authority may be conferred on local boards with approval of the commission.

BACK TO HAPPINESS

As the west door of the depot swung open it hid the man sitting behind it from view. Katherine never even stopped to make sure it was fastened after her. One glance up at the clock, and she hurried over to the ticket window.

"Topeka," she said, in a low voice. "Baggage?" queried the young fellow who was on duty at night.

"I have only my suitcase," said Katherine. "Thanks."

She picked it up and went out on the platform. The up-bound train was due any minute.

As she passed out that man behind the door rose quickly and came forward, his hat pushed back from his face.

"I'll take one to the same place, Al," he said with a grim smile.

"It's Topeka, Mr. Gavin, and no sleepers on this train."

"That's all right, I don't mind," said Gavin, pleasantly. "You might telephone to her father and mother that I have gone along to take care of her. You understand, Al?"

"Yes, sir. All right, Mr. Gavin."

Al Simms pursed his lips for a silent whistle as Gavin stepped out into the night.

The midnight train pulled in, and he saw the two board it, the girl still unconscious that she was being followed.

When he came back and unlocked the ticket office he called up the Osgood house. He could hear the prolonged ringing of the bell, and finally a drowsy, rather testy tone asking who it was.

"It's me, Mr. Osgood—Al Simms, at the station—yes, sir. Mr. Gavin just told me to call you up and say he would look after Miss Osgood, as he was taking the same train through to Topeka."

"Miss Osgood is upstairs in bed and asleep."

"Pardon me, Mr. Osgood," but I just sold her the ticket myself, and the train's gone."

There was a faint, smothered sound like a groan and a muttered word of thanks; then silence, and Al Simms stared thoughtfully out of the dark window pane.

On the train Katherine found a vacant seat easily. Nearly all the occupants of the car were already asleep in varying postures. She sat close to the window, very cold and straight, looking at the reflection of herself in its darkened surface.

She had hardly come to the full realization that the step was taken, that she had thrown off the bond of duty and love that held her to her home, and was going out to find herself. That was the way she had put it to herself for weeks, to find herself.

Somehow back home in the jungle of warring personalities, she had lost the grip on her own self. At her feet was her suitcase, and tucked half under her skirt her violin case.

While she had that she was never afraid. It would bring her money for food and shelter and clothes until she could take lessons and broaden out her scope. From Topeka she would go east gradually. It must be easy when one was young and alone, and all the world lay ahead.

She threw up her chin with renewed determination and looked down the aisle at Kenneth Gavin smiling at her. He bowed and came leisurely forward with outstretched hand.

"Now, isn't this a lucky chance, Miss Kitty?" he exclaimed. "I was dreading the night trip, and here I find you to talk with. Going far?"

Katherine hesitated. The one person she really would have avoided was with her. His eyes held no questioning; his voice was natural and cheery. Almost against her will she welcomed his presence.

"To Topeka," she said. "I expect to work there now."

"That's good. It does anyone good to broaden out. You must be over twenty now?"

"Twenty-one in December. She smiled wistfully. "It's pretty well grown up, isn't it?"

"Not to thirty-four," he came back. "I'm going away because I'm lonesome up at the house, and there's nothing to do there now."

"Nothing to do?" she repeated, quickly. "Why, what a queer thing for you of all men to say, the most active that I ever knew."

"Well, there isn't. All my plans have been upset just the way you'd break a cobweb down."

"I'm awfully sorry," she began, impulsively, her big blue eyes searching his for some clue to the trouble.

"No, you're not, not a single bit. Though I don't think you've done it purposely, mind." He was still smiling.

She had always felt a queer, unsteady thrill when he bent his head and looked at her so, and had been angry at herself for it.

He was Kenneth Gavin, the one citizen her little home town was proud of. It had tried to send him to the legislature and make him serve on committees, but he had evaded the effort as a boy evades lessons.

And now he sat beside her on this midnight local, telling her he was lonely and that somehow she was to blame.

"I'm sorry," she said again, "awfully sorry. Why on earth are you going to Topeka?"

"To look after you," he said promptly. "You see, I was down at the station waiting for them to come after me. There had been a late meeting at the club. Your father was there, too, by the way. You probably took advantage of his absence to run away, now didn't you?"

Slowly, against her will, the tell-tale tears filled her eyes.

"You don't know what life is like to me," she said, tensely. "You don't know anything about it."

"Don't I?" he replied, warmly, but with a humorous gleam in his eyes. "After knowing your father for years?"

"I've watched you grow up, Miss Kitty, for the past seven years, ever since I came back from my first trip around the world. You were fifteen then, and I heard you play your violin out in the garden one afternoon, remember?"

"The 'Nocturne in E Flat,'" she flashed back at him. "I know. Then what?"

"Nothing. I just waited around. There seemed to be many who filled your life in a way I could not hope to."

"You mean Walter?"

She had entirely forgotten Walter in her eagerness to escape from her home boundaries, and yet there certainly had been Walter as a conspicuous figure in her life. It had never occurred to her that anyone could regard him as a serious person.

"Don't you know that he's going to be a naval engineer, and has gone for four years to San Francisco? He went two weeks ago, and I never again dreamt anyone thought we cared for each other—that that way."

"Brentwood Junction," called out the brakeman at the door.

Gavin rose, and picked up her suitcase and violin.

"We get the down train here," he said. "It's due in about ten minutes."

"But I'm not going back. I'm—"

"Yes, you are," he smiled down at her reassuringly, compellingly. "Of course you are. Now if you had told me that you were running away to marry Walter, I should probably have gone with you, delivered you safely into his keeping, and come back home."

"But now," he leaned over until she shrank a little from the fire in his eyes, "now you are going back home tonight, and I will see your father myself."

"You don't want to fight your own way in the world, dear heart. You just want to be loved and petted up a bit, and given a chance to breathe in an atmosphere that is congenial. Isn't my atmosphere congenial, Kit; honest, now?"

The train had slackened speed. Katherine gave a little unsteady laugh.

"I'm trying to make up my mind."

"You know you're not. You're fixing your hat one straight, and are all ready to follow me, aren't you?"

"Brentwood, Brentwood," called the brakeman again.

"Hurry," said Katherine. "They only stop here a minute." And they stepped off the train together into the night.—Boston Globe.

THREE THINGS YOU NEED..

First—

"Kentuckian"

A virile, newsy newspaper with the interest of the entire community at heart. Issues of the day are handled without fear or favor. You will find in this paper an up-to-date department for each member of the family. Clean, honest, straightforward—it is a paper your family should not be without.

Second—

Technical World Magazine

is the one magazine that not only entertains in a fascinating manner, but which also instructs. It is the magazine for the busy business man, or for the person who wants to lull away a summer's afternoon, and be agreeably informed at the same time. It is profusely illustrated, and tells in a simple and interesting way of the discoveries of scientists, the achievements of inventors, the feats of engineers and explorers, and the opening of every new field of human endeavor. What Jack London says:—"I have just chanced upon my first copy of TECHNICAL WORLD MAGAZINE. There isn't anything like it. I want more, and I cannot wait for them to come, so I am sending you herewith check for which please enter my subscription and send me immediately the last two years' back numbers."

Third—

A Fine Atlas

This one is just off the presses. This is the year to obtain a new atlas. The 1910 Census has just been completed, this atlas contains the official figures. 128 pages of 3 color maps brought right down to date—every map giving the results of the most recent surveys. All railroads are shown and named and maps of all large cities are included. There are 21 double page maps showing in detail portions of the U. S. and Canada. Dimensions 10 1/2 x 13 1/2. Bound in stiff linen—Silver Leaf Title—printed on heavy plate paper. Sells regularly for $3.00. A splendid gift.

WOMAN DOCTOR WHO BRAVED INDIA DANGERS

You never can tell what a woman is going to do in these days, and the interesting thing about it is that she can generally do as she pleases.

In the old days
she went along
certain lines,
whether she enjoyed them or not,
and was very tim-
id about over-
stepping them for fear of criticism,
not only by her
family, but also
by her dear five
hundred friends.
Nowadays the more unusual a
thing a woman
does the more it
seems to redound to her credit, especially when her departure from unconventional paths is along humanitarian lines. A case in point is Dr.
Arley Munson, a young American woman who, after having acquired a thorough training and taken her M. D. degree, set sail for India to see what she could do with her up-to-date methods in that far-off country, where foreign doctors are few and native doctors
not always able to combat disease.

For five years Dr. Munson worked in India, not in the big cities, nor towns, but in villages and the jungles, and she battled with the ailments of the half-starved natives with extraordinary success. Not only did she give her own service, but she established hospitals, though she did not spend her time in them, for she traveled alone for days and nights, fighting plagues and pestilences. She had experiences and adventures such as fall

to the lot of few women.

When Dr. Munson's friends asked her "Why did you leave the splendid opportunities of your own country for the discomforts and dangers of a far-off pagan land?" she felt inclined to make the submissive reply heard so frequently from the lips of the meek-voiced women of India: "Kismet!
Adrushtam! It was my destiny. How else should I find peace?"

The desire to visit India and help the natives seized Dr. Munson when she was a small child, for on turning the leaves of a mission book she found an illustration representing a Hindu mother throwing her baby into the gaping jaws of a crocodile as a sacrifice to the gods. The child asked her mother what the dreadful picture meant, and when it was explained to her she bid her tearful face, and with her heart swelling with sorrow and pity she resolved to "hurry and grow up" that she might go out to India and save those poor little babies.

In the years that followed she studied the history of India and learned the tragedy of the existence of the women of that country, so that the smoldering resolve of her childhood flamed
into a mature and steady determination to spend a part of her life practicing medicine and surgery in India.
No sooner were her college and hospital studies completed than she left for India.

PLAYED SANTA TO THOUSANDS OF CHILDREN

The "Santa Claus Association" was a feature of the recent holiday season
in New York, and,
to between 16,000
and 17,000 children, a most important feature.

The absolutely
new idea was first
offered to that portion of the
New York public
which is pleasantly disposed toward creatures on
Dec. 10, after
about nine days'
work of preparation on the part of John D. Gluck,
an energetic
young New Yorker, without previous training in philanthropic work
but who had experience as a publicity
man and as an efficiency engineer.

He says that the thought grew out of something which occurred years ago, when a man starved to death in Brooklyn, although he had been living near to many prosperous people, including Gluck's own family, who gladly would have helped him had they known his need.

But they did not. Only certain charity workers were familiar with it and the operation of the beneficent machines they set in motion was too slow to save his life. Had he lived another day or two he would have been well cared for; but he did not live that other day or two.

Well, after that, Gluck gave mu-thought to matters of the sort, deciding, finally, that it might be possible to bring the need and the impulse to give into something nearer speaking distance. The Santa Claus association was the ultimate result. It seems to have been amazingly effective.

In the fourteen days preceding Christmas it received 14,000 letters—1,000 every day—from little ones who,
through them, aimed to reach to the headquarters of the Christmas spirit.
A careful estimate of fact proved that these 14,000 letters represented not less than two children each upon the average. This would give a total child population of 28,000 who within two weeks grasped and acted upon the Santa Claus association idea.

EARL OF KINTORE PAYS VISIT TO AMERICA

It used to be the case that Englishmen who come to this country complained of the speed with which things were being done. They did not like the rush that characterized everything, whether it was a matter of business or pleasure, and were fond of telling us that we did not know how to rest, and that we simply dashed through life without stopping to inquire what it meant, or really to enjoy the good things that came their way.

From visiting Englishmen
nowadays that complaint is seldom heard. Indeed the fashion seems to be in danger of growing up among them
of trying to outstrip us in speed when they come to this side. A noteworthy example was not long ago by no less
a personage than Lord Chancellor Haldane, who took less than four days to "see" New York, make a trip to Canada and deliver an address before the annual meeting of the American Bar association at Montreal and take part in several festivities arranged in his honor.

Now the earl of Kintore, who arrived here a short time ago, was seen busy flying about the country from one place to another, attending dinners, "being presented," as they would term in England his meeting with the president, meeting commercial and other bodies, and in other ways trying to follow the pace which they say in Europe is necessary in order to keep abreast of things over here.

Happening to reach his hotel in New York before Lord Kintore had got under way for his day's programme, the writer was able to find the nobleman alone for a few moments, but not unguarded. For it appears that when the earl decided to make his present
visit to this country he also made up his mind that he would not talk except upon two subjects, those being the two in whose interest he had started for this side. Those matters are the approaching centenary of peace between England and the United States and the Anglo-American exposition,
which will celebrate that one hundredth anniversary.

Lord Kintore, who is a privy councillor and a grand commander of the order of St. Michael and St. George, is chairman of the executive committee of the Anglo-American exposition.
He is the head of an old Scottish family, and one of his ancestors married
the great-granddaughter of James I.
of Scotland. The present earl is the ninth holder of his title. For some years he was governor of South Australia, where he was very popular.
He is also popular in England.

J. B. DUKE MAY BECOME A BRITISH SUBJECT

According to London Despatch, the leasing of Crewe house, the property of the marquis of Crewe, by James B. Duke, the American tobacco man, has raised the question whether or not Mr. Duke will ultimately entirely live in England and become a British subject.

The correspondent understands that this is not likely, but the renting of the house will mean that Mr. Duke will spend at least six months a year in England, mainly on account of his increasing duties as agent for the British American Tobacco Co.

Mayfair, directly across the street from Sunderland house, the home of the duchess of Marlborough, who was formerly Miss Connelley Van derbit. It is one of the most attractive residences in London. The reason the marquis of Crewe gave it up was because he was balked in his desire to add another story to the house. It was prevented from doing this by a law known as "ancient lights," under the provisions of which owners of adjacent property can recover huge damages if a neighboring structure cuts off
the sun at noon from their windows.
"Ancient lights" were claimed by the neighbors of the marquis of Crewe, and when Mr. Duke wanted to turn over the place the former was compelled to get rid of it.

Mr. Duke was also delinquent in the Duke's particular fondness for low houses. This feature of Crewe house, which is only two stories high,
which blocked Mr. and Mrs. Duke
who will undoubtedly be "happily

SOLONS PULL OFF STUNT

Members Lured Into Retiring Room For "Fourth House" Meeting.

ARE COMPELLED TO TALK.

Speakers On Tax Reform Bill Find Themselves Addressing Empty Benches.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 20.—A burlesque in which most of the members of the General assembly took part was "pulled off" in the spacious House retiring room late Wednesday afternoon and had Col. Jim Whalen been on the ground he would no doubt have jumped at the opportunity to "book" the attraction for a long run at his Louisville playhouse.

The House had resolved itself into Committee of the Whole to hear a couple of speakers discuss the proposed "tax reform" bill, which has dragged its weary length for many legislative days. A bunch of the solons made their escape to the House retiring room and they concluded to have a little fun by organizing the "Fourth House" with Representative Harry J. Myers, of Covington, the comedian of the Legislature, as speaker. Some of the House officers were impressed into service and on one pretext or the other the solons in the House chamber were inveigled into the retiring room and marched up to the improvised rostrum and compelled to speak on some "subject" that was assigned them by "Speaker" Meyers.

LURED OUT OF CHAMBER.

It was not long before the most of the House members were lured to the "Fourth House" meeting and some ludicrous scenes were enacted. Even Speaker Claude B. Terrell was caught unawares and forced to tell what grievance he held against Representative J. Guthrie Coke, of Logan county, to call the latter to preside over the House in Committee of the Whole and hereby compel him to sit through the "tax reform talk."

Representative Matt S. Walton, of Lexington, was called upon to tell what he thought of "slit skirts," and his colleague from the country district of Fayette county decanted on "Skim Milk." Even the Senators who journeyed over to the House end of the Capitol were uncereemoniously jerked into the retiring room and compelled to "address" the crowd. Senator Charley Charley Knight, of Louisville, was required to explain the "chicken" bill passed by his colleague, Senator Sam Robertson, in the upper branch, and what kind of "chickens" the bill had reference to. Senator Knight was "game" and made a speech that caught the crowd.

When an effort was made to force Representative Frank Greene, of Carroll county, on the rostrum, the crowd was treated to a high class and exciting wrestling bout in which the honors were all Mr. Greene's way. The promoters of the wrestling game in Louisville are overlooking a large-sized bet in not signing Representative Greene.

It was very amusing to see the astonishment pictured on the faces of some of the staid solons as they unwittingly entered the room where the revelers bled forth, but in nearly every case they entered into the spirit of the fun and "spoke their piece." Those who attempted to get away found the exits barred and were forced to gracefully submit.

During all this time the crowd in the House chamber dwindled until the speaker on the tax question found himself addressing practically empty benches.

Although impromptu the whole burlesque was executed without a hitch and the solons readily responded when called outside the House chamber and were told that their presence was desired in the retiring room. As a funny stunt the "Fourth House" meeting was probable without a parallel in legislative annals.

Terrible Picturing of Suffering.

Clinton, Ky.—Mrs. M. C. McElroy, in a letter from Clinton, writes: "For six years, I was a sufferer from female troubles. I could not eat and could not stand on my feet, without suffering great pain. Three of the best doctors in the state said I was in a critical condition, and going down hill. I lost hope. After using Cardui a week, I began to improve. Now I feel better than for six years." Fifty years of success, in actual practice, is positive proof that Cardui can always be relied on, for relieving female weakness and disease. Why not test it for yourself? Sold by all druggists. ### Women Went Out.

Jackson, Miss., Feb. 20.—More than 200 women waging an aggressive campaign for a bill pending before the lower house of the legislature, providing for raising the age of consent to eighteen years, left the house galleries during the bitter debate on that measure. The debate was on an amendment the effect of which was that the present style of some dresses worn by many women on the streets should be considered evidence of bad character. The exit of the women from the galleries followed remarks by Representative Morrison, of Grenada, who advocated adoption of the amendment. The amendment was defeated, and the original bill was passed.
